Investment Change Notification.

Mutual Fund Strategy Change Election Instructions

As notified in the communication dated November 29, 2023 ("Communication") SEI is making changes to the following SEI Mutual Fund Strategy Families and Strategies: SEI Private Client, Institutional and Domestic ("the Strategy(ies)").

If you have determined to keep each of your Investors' Accounts invested in accordance with the updated Strategy allocations, no additional action is required on your part. SEI will update your investors' accounts to follow the revised Strategy allocations in the timeframes noted in the Communication.

If, for any of your investors' impacted accounts, you decide not to follow a Strategy's revised asset allocation and instead wish to retain that account in the current strategy allocation (a "Static Strategy"), please see the election instructions below.

- Step 1: Log into seiadvisorcenter.com
- Step 2: Review your accounts to determine the best option for your clients:
  - (A) Accept the allocation updates coming in February 2024 (no action needed)
  - (B) Reject the allocation updates and move to a Static Strategy
  - (A) No election is required to accept the allocations. The task outlined below will be default to "Accept."
  - (B) If you choose to reject the allocations, your clients' accounts will be moved to the Static Strategy by the next business day. Proceed to Step 3 to make your election.

Please note:

- i. Starting December 5, 2023, you will be able to view the estimated tax impact for your clients. Please see page 4, Sample Rebalance, for further instructions.
- ii. Static Strategies retain their current target asset allocations indefinitely. Static Strategies will not receive the updated target asset allocation or any other future allocation updates. Static Strategies will continue to rebalance to their static allocations per the standard quarterly schedule. Static Strategies will function as they do today when invest cash or raise cash actions are taken.
- iii. If you would like to change to a supported strategy in the future, please see page 5, Modify Investment Assignment, for further instructions.
- iv. Elections to reject the allocations are due Feb 1, 2024.

Step 3: From the home page select Activity and then Tasks from the drop down, the Activity page will open in a new tab.

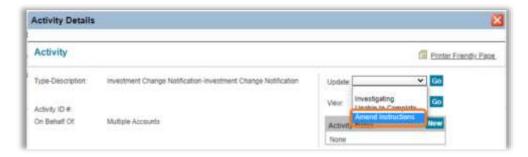

Step 4: Click on the hyperlinked activity number in the Activity/Ref ID column in order to take action.

Please Note:

- The primary advisor is the only advisor who can make elections.
- Do not click on the menu icon in the Actions column. You will not be able to proceed from there.

Step 5: The Activity Details will open. Select the drop down arrow next to Update, choose Amend Instructions and select Go.

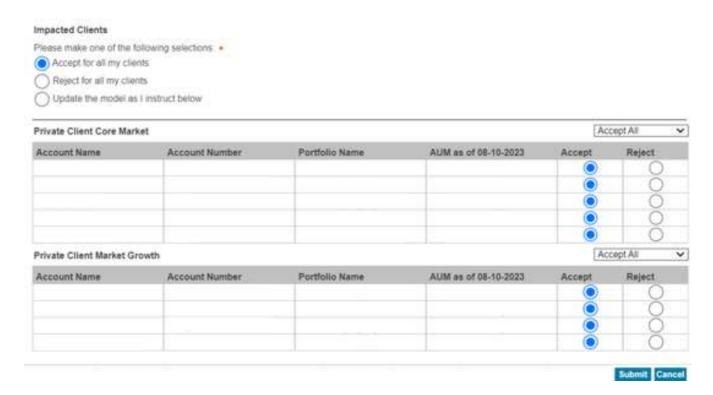

Step 6: The Investment Change Authorization will open and display all accounts holding the updating strategies.

Please choose one of the following selections:

- Accept for all my clients: no action is required. SEI will update your investor's allocation changes in the timeline noted in the Communication.
- Reject for all my clients
- Update the model as I instruct below: This selection allows you to make your selections by account where there will be a combination of accounts who you selected to accept or reject

Step 7: Review your selections carefully, and then select Submit.

Please Note: Once instructions are submitted the elections cannot be amended. You will need to either Modify the Investment Assignment in Advisor Center (see page 3), or submit the proper paperwork to SEI to override your election.

Reminder: Taking no action is an election to accept the new allocations for all your investor accounts.
